NURS490: Nursing - Independent Studies in Nursing

The purpose of this nursing theory course is the enrichment of a student's overall program of study. It is designed by the interested student or group of students and is agreed upon by the faculty involved and approved by the Undergraduate Curriculum Committee. A similar course must not be offered elsewhere at Queen's or have a remedial intent. There is a limit of one independent studies course for credit.

Workload is commensurate with a half-credit course: 9 units

Prerequisite - First year BNSc requirements.
